Customers never read a price on its own.

They compare it with everything around it.